POSITION DESCRIPTION

The University of California, Davis School of Medicine is recruiting for a full-time Assistant or Associate Professor in the Health Sciences Clinical Professor series in the Department of Family and Community Medicine. The Department of Family Medicine is national leader in primary care research, education, and clinical care.

The position would be expected to contribute with distinction in the areas of clinical care, teaching mentoring of trainees scholarly and/or creative activities, and University and public service.

Specific core duties, functions and responsibilities include:

- Providing direct outpatient clinical care in all aspects of family medicine, across the patient age spectrum, with a focus on caring for individuals from medically underserved backgrounds. The position will include providing care to a highly diverse population of patients at one of the local Federally Qualified Health Centers (FQHCs) with whom we partner in training our residents.
- Providing inpatient care for adult and pediatric hospital patients and/or obstetrical patients.
- Teaching and supervision of residents and medical students in the inpatient and outpatient setting, with an emphasis on care of the medically underserved.
- Participation in leading the family medicine residency training practice at one of the FQHCs with whom we partner in education, including curriculum oversight and development, mentorship for residents, and participation in practice care quality monitoring and improvement efforts.
- Contribute to departmental, University and public service

QUALIFICATIONS

Basic qualifications (required at time of application)

Candidates must have the following qualifications:

- MD or DO degree
- Successful completion of an approved family medicine residency training program
- Be Board certified or board eligible in Family Medicine
- Ability to obtain a Medical License in the State of California
- Current outpatient clinical practice including pediatric, prenatal, and postpartum care
- Demonstrated experience in the teaching of residents and students
- Commitment to providing care to diverse populations and under-served populations

Preferred qualifications

The following qualifications are optional, but strongly desired for this position:

- Current practice caring for adult and pediatric hospital inpatients.
- Current inpatient obstetrical practice.
- Hospitalist or equivalent training and/or job experience
- Experience in care of LGBTQ populations
