

Duke University School of Medicine seeks to recruit an extraordinary leader for the role of Executive Vice Chair, Department of Psychiatry & Behavioral Sciences. This individual will be recognized for excellent leadership in patient care, clinical strategy and faculty affairs on a scale that merits national preeminence.

Consistently ranked in the top 10 for NIH funding and 6th nationally in medical education by USNWR, the Department with over 250 faculty members and 70 residents and fellows has a tradition of cutting-edge clinical care, nationally recognized graduate medical education, and innovative research. As a member of the Duke University Health system department services reach across three campuses and partner with Durham VA and community service leaders.

With a key focus on clinical strategy and faculty affairs within the Department of Psychiatry & Behavioral Sciences, the Executive Vice-Chair will be a leader capable of effecting a vision of transformational services across Duke Health. The successful candidate will have recognized academic administrative experience in the integration of psychiatric and behavioral health services to support health care delivery systems of the future. This individual must have an impeccable reputation in and commitment to patient care, as well as a successful track record of mentoring and developing faculty.

Duke University School of Medicine: Established in 1930, Duke University School of Medicine is the youngest of the nation's top medical schools. Ranked 9th among its peers in 2018 NIH total award, the School takes pride in being an inclusive community of outstanding learners, investigators, clinicians, and staff where traditional barriers are low, interdisciplinary collaboration is embraced, and great ideas accelerate translation of fundamental scientific discoveries to improve human health locally and around the globe. Duke University School of Medicine consistently ranks among the top of the nation's 154 medical schools with U.S. News and World Report placing the School 31st in its 2019 annual survey of best medical schools for primary care and 13th for research.

Please submit nominations and/or curriculum vitae to the search firm: Michelle McClintock, Senior Associate, Hodges Partners, 2911 Turtle Creek Blvd, Suite 300, Dallas, TX 75219, Phone: (214) 902-7905, E-mail: mmcclintock@hodgespartners.com