

Assistant/Associate Professor in Residence
Assistant/ Associate Professor
Family and Community Medicine
UC Davis School of Medicine
Department of Family and Community Medicine

The Department of Family and Community Medicine at the University of California, Davis School of Medicine is seeking full-time candidates for a 100% academic position as an Assistant or Associate Professor In Residence at 50% and Assistant or Associate Professor at 50%. This is a non-State funded position. Appointees to this series are required to engage in research, teaching, patient care, and University/public service.

The successful candidate will be expected to establish or continue a significant externally funded research program within his/her area of focus, congruent with the research mission and foci of the department. The candidate will have time devoted to research, clinical care, teaching, and University/public service.

Candidates must possess the degree of MD or DO, be Board Certified in Family Medicine, be eligible for licensure in the State of California; demonstrate ability and experience to conduct scholarly/clinical research, and have recent clinical practice, including outpatient clinic. Experience in and the ability to teach medical students, residents, and fellows also is required. Completion of a post-graduate fellowship or Ph.D. is desired. Experience in providing inpatient hospital care and obstetrical care are preferred.

Qualified applicants should upload an up-to-date Curriculum Vitae, Statement of Teaching, Statement of Research, Statement of Contributions to Diversity and provide three (3) to five (5) references with full contact information online at <https://recruit.ucdavis.edu/apply/JPF02533>.

For full consideration, applications should be received by January 25, 2019. However, this position will be open until filled through June 30, 2019.

The University of California is committed to creating and maintaining a community dedicated to the advancement, application, and transmission of knowledge and creative endeavors through academic excellence, where all individuals who participate in University programs and activities can work and learn together in a safe and secure environment, free of violence, harassment, discrimination, exploitation, or intimidation. With this commitment, UC Davis conducts a reference check on all finalists for tenured positions. The reference check involves contacting the administration of the applicant's previous institution(s) to ask whether there have been substantiated findings of misconduct that would violate the University's Faculty Code of Conduct. To implement this process, UC Davis requires all applicants for any open search for assistant/associate/full professor to complete, sign, and upload the form entitled "Authorization to Release Information" into RECRUIT as part of their application. If an applicant does not include the signed authorization with the application materials, the application will be considered incomplete, and as with any incomplete application, will not receive further consideration. Although all applicants for faculty recruitments must complete the entire application, only finalists considered for positions with tenure or security of employment will be subject to reference checks.
