

Assistant, Associate or Full Professor - Stereotactic and Functional Neurosurgeon

The Department of Neurosurgery at Stanford University seeks a stereotactic and functional neurosurgeon to expand the department's academic research and clinical program. The successful candidate will be appointed at the Assistant, Associate or Full Professor rank in the University Medical Line (UML). Faculty rank will be determined by the qualifications and experience of the successful candidate.

The major criteria for appointment for faculty in the University Medical Line shall be excellence in the overall mix of clinical care, clinical teaching, scholarly activity that advances clinical medicine, and institutional service appropriate to the programmatic need the individual is expected to fulfill.

The successful applicant must be board-eligible or board-certified from the American Board of Neurological Surgeons (ABNS), and eligible for a California medical license. It is expected that the candidate will have special interest and expertise in functional and stereotactic neurosurgery.

We expect the successful candidate to help expand the Functional Neurosurgery Program at Stanford and develop an academic career with responsibilities including patient care, teaching, and clinical and/or laboratory research.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

The Neurosurgery Department, School of Medicine, and Stanford University value faculty who are committed to advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion. Candidates may optionally include as part of their research or teaching statement a brief discussion of how their work will further these ideals.
