

Surgical Oncology

The Division of Surgical Oncology in the Department of Surgery at Brigham and Women's Hospital and Harvard Medical School is actively recruiting a full-time or part-time academic Sarcoma/Melanoma Surgeon at the Instructor or Assistant Professor level. Candidates should have an M.D. or M.D., Ph.D. and should have completed an ACGME-accredited General Surgery residency and fellowship training in Complex General Surgical Oncology. Candidates must demonstrate professional, academic, and teaching skills in general surgery and surgical oncology and should have a track record of publication in basic or clinical research.

Brigham and Women's Hospital and the Department of Surgery are committed to ensuring our diverse community feels welcome, cared for, and valued. Candidates who have experience working with a diverse range of faculty, staff, and patients, and who can contribute to the climate of inclusivity are encouraged to identify their experiences in these areas.

We are an equal opportunity employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

A selection committee, headed by Chandrajit P. Raut, M.D., M.Sc., Chief, Division of Surgical Oncology, Brigham and Women's Hospital, will be reviewing all applicants. Interested candidates should submit their curriculum vitae and a letter of interest by email to Gerard M. Doherty, M.D., Chair, Department of Surgery, Brigham and Women's Hospital at the following address: surgeryfacultyaffairs@bwh.harvard.edu.

