

The NIH is the center of medical and behavioral research for the Nation
---making essential medical discoveries that improve health and save lives.

Director, Division of Extramural Science Programs
National Institutes of Health
Department of Health and Human Services

The National Eye Institute's Director, Division of Extramural Science Programs (DESP) serves the larger NEI extramural vision research community and the NEI through the management of research project grants, cooperative agreements, training grants, and small business awards. The DESP Director provides executive-level programmatic leadership and administrative oversight in implementing the scientific priorities of the Institute, institute-wide policies and procedures, and resource allocation for extramural funds, and leads a staff of approximately 20 Program Officers and analysts who plan and direct clinical and research portfolios.

Applicants must possess an MD, PhD, or equivalent doctoral degree. Applicants should have a proven track record of managing significant research programs. Applicants should have demonstrated senior-level research experience and knowledge of vision research in one or more scientific areas related to blinding eye diseases, visual disorders, mechanisms of visual function, preservation of sight, or vision rehabilitation. The candidate should have demonstrated administrative leadership experience managing a complex research program or organization. Applicants should have experience in mentoring and training, budget and resource allocation, and administrative and interpersonal skills.

The successful candidate for this position will be appointed at a salary commensurate with experience and accomplishments, and full Federal benefits, including leave, health and life insurance, retirement and savings plan (401K equivalent) will be provided.

If you are ready for an exciting leadership opportunity, please see the detailed vacancy announcement at <https://hr.nih.gov/jobs/scientific>.

Application packages must be received by November 3, 2023, ET for consideration in the initial review period.

Please contact Cindy Best at bestc@nei.nih.gov for questions and/or additional information.

DHHS and NIH are Equal Opportunity Employers and encourage applications from women and minorities.